

Brothers
MANAGEMENT FOR 45 YEARS.
Nothing for all Occasions.
S and Dress Suits,
Cheviots, Homespun and Unfinis
effects, now very popular.
Clothing in great variety.
s for every purpose.
CRUC Astor Place
LaFayette Place

KILLS SON AND HIMSELF

PLAYS HIDE AND SEEK WITH BOY GET HIM FROM HIS MOTHER

Forces Poison Down Child's Throat and Then
Some Himself—Mother Hears Scream
Calls in Neighbors to Bust Open

—Man Was J. L. Haigh, a New York K
keeper—Story of Man With a L

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., May 17.—John
Haigh, 28 years old, a book-keeper for H. B.
Cushman & Co., wholesale dealers in trimmings, of 10 Washington place, New York city, poisoned his six-year-old to-night and then committed suicide at home in Pelham. The boy died before physician arrived. The poison used cyanide of potassium. The poison was found in the room where the tragedy occurred. It bore the name of Schaefer & Co., wholesale druggists in New York.
Haigh bought a large quantity from wholesale house, it is believed, under pretence that he was in the drug business.

No cause for the tragedy is known.

Mary Haigh, the widow of the suicide, told that overwork and worry are the cause.
She is prostrated from the shock.

The Haighs have lived in Pelham a two years and are well known there.

When Mrs. Haigh told Coroner Bannister to-night that she and her husband ever had trouble when she scolded him for working too hard, Haigh was tall and well built and fond of out-of-door sports. His wife says that she and her husband had two children whom Haigh idolized. One of them was a boy of six named Charles, and the other has not yet been named. He had a pair of pet goats for the children and a dog named "Cinders." The children's life with their parents was so happy that the children say they will never leave home.

According to the version of the trial given by Mrs. Haigh to Coroner Bannister, Haigh returned to Pelham to-night, as at 6 o'clock and ate supper at 8 o'clock. He then went to bed and fell asleep. He was in a pleasant frame of mind, and the meal suggested to little Charley that they play hide-and-seek.

"All right, papa," said the child, without leaving his bed, and he called out to his mother, "I'll go up and hunt for you, Mamma. I'll stay in the dining room until you get through."

Mrs. Haigh took the baby on her lap and sat down to read a newspaper. She forgot all about the child. She called out to him when he came in, but he did not answer. She found the door locked.

At the crisis of the trial by this time, Mrs. Haigh called for her husband to open it. She said she never had time to open it. One of them, a man in a white coat, came in and told her to get up the floor with the boy clasped in his arms. Beside them lay a little doll. Neither could she see the man, but she saw a mound can of poison and the glass in which she had undisturbedly held the boy in her arms while he forced the poison down his throat.

[illegible] go to New York on his usual train, he leaves Pougham at 8 o'clock. He was in Pougham as late as 11 o'clock by some of his neighbors.

Solomon Leeb Buys a House.

Solomon Leeb, of Kulin, Leeb & Co., here yesterday the new two-story American bungalow dwelling at East Elgin—second at The house occupies a lot 25x130, and is quoted in the market at $160,000. It sold by Joseph A. Farley.

CAREY & SIDES

America's Largest Credit Clothiers and Tailors
80-82 4th Av., JUST ABOVE 10TH ST.
MEN'S AND BOYS' CLOTHING

ON CREDIT

READY MADE AND TO ORDER

Warm dress means neither cutting nor sewing. You can wear it out of our NO EXTRA CHARGE CREDIT SYSTEM as a means of convenience where cash is lacking.

WE'REY & MORTIMER PAYMENT PLAN

Ready Made Suits, Tuxedos and Overcoats, $112 and $137. To CREDIT: $10, $20 and $30. Boys' Suits, $65 to $112. Tuxedos and Overcoats, $85 to $112. Men's Hats, $10 to $15. Silk Linen, To Order, $110, $135, $160, $190 and $220. Neckties, $1.50 to $2.50. Socks and Fancy Vests, $3 to $6. Men's Hats, $3 to $5. Write for terms.

Come Saturday until 10:30. Mondays 9 to 11.

Brokaw
UNDER THE SAME
Ready to Wear Club
Business Suits

---

made from Rough Worsted to Worsted in indistinct color lines
Boys' and Children's
Livery Outfits
Fourth Avenue

that is the only time, with the exception of this last, that I have ever known him to yield to the temptation to drink. And as a matter of fact, his habits were so good that he never drank by example, he always preached totalitism.

"As to his death, I believe that he was a man Stanley somewhere and not being himself. I suppose that he let Stanley know in some way or other that he was suffering from rheumatism, and a man told me once for all, I believe, that Stanley finally got Father Phillips to go to his room where the priest permitted himself to be subjected to Stanley's treatment. He convinced that in my uncle's condition death would have followed almost immediately any such heroic treatment—that,

"but the opinion that the hot-air treatment, if Father Phillips were subjected to it, would have caused his death," Dougherty is joined by Dr. H. H. Mann. Asked after the autopsy what he thought the effect of this treatment would be upon a man in Father Phillips' condition, Dr. H. H. Mann said:

"I believe that it would have killed him LONGER SOMETIMES FOR DRINK."

In reference to his fondness for liquor, Father Phillips made a statement to a night manager of the New Central Hotel. He said that about once in every five years he had drunk a little rum and he could do nothing until longing had been satisfied.

"I have just got to go away somewhere and I have put you in the hotel room and when I have taken my fill I have further desire for the stuff for a long time," he said, "I am afflicted with this appetite as a sort of punishment. I try to do duty as I find it, but I evidently fall somewhere, and this is the way I am punished for my shortcomings."

Stanley was arraigned yesterday morning in the West Side court and the policeman who had him in custody was against him as a suspect in the murder of the woman. The law firm of Levy & Linger took up the case and at their request he was remanded to the county jail, the Coroner and locked up in the Tombs.

He is about 33 years old, is tall, gangly and dark with a pointed beard. He drew a long breath when he saw the woman who talked to him seemed to be a person of some education.

SEARCH FOR MR. STANLEY.

The police are looking for Mr. Stanley. She was her husband's only home a week yesterday. When the janitress last saw her she would not go to the rooms in rear.

"I would faint up there," she said.

Capt. Donahue said last night that had some clues to the woman's whereabouts but didn't care to say anything about them.

SHAMROCK II'S TRIAL AT WEDMONT

SHOWED THAT AN INDIFFERENT MAINS WOULD

on Too Light Spars.
Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN.
LONDON, May 18.—The Field, commenting on the trial of the Shamrock off the coast of Ireland, says: "The challenger's performance was distinctly disappointing, although the so-called trial of the Solent revealed nothing of any value. There is no doubt that the favorable appearance of the yacht combined with satisfactory weather was sufficient to buoy up the water through the water, buoyed up our hopes until we felt reasonably confident of W. S. S. yacht's success in the open sea."
A rolling sea, combined with a certain want of life, which made her position in the water, and the fact that she was not so large and possibly too light spars have been largely neglected against the success of the new cutter, and we now feel that the same alterations are made there is not much hope of her being "tuned up" enough to be Shamrock I by a sufficient margin.

FATAL FIRE IN BROOKLYN.
One Man Mortally and Two Severely Burned.
John W. Masury & Son's Factory.
One man was burned to death, and two were severely burned at a fire in John W. Masury & Son's paint and varnish factory at 157-161 Plymouth street, Brooklyn, last night at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The storey brick building at 100, 102 and 104, which was used as a three-storey brick building, was used as a storage house for the manufactured paint and varnish.

Thomas McDermough, 23 years old, of 100 North John W. Thompson streets and his fifteen-year-old son, John W. McDermough, of 17 Bridge street, and Thomas Scott, 21 years old, of 104 North John W. Thompson street, were in the building preparing a vat of varnish when the explosion occurred.

A quantity of shellac in the vat became overheated and exploded. The explosion threw all of the men on the floor and the burning vat of varnish fell on the floor and burst into flames. Scott ran to their feet and after putting out the fire in their clothes ran to the adjacent building.

They closed the doors to prevent the spreading to the storage building, which was filled with tanks containing from 100 to 200 gallons of varnish.

Nine engines and three hook and ladder companies were sent on the ground from the foot of day street.

John W. Thomas and his son, Thomas, were injured and their bodies were burned on the head, shoulders, back and arms. The McDermoughs were not injured.

When McDermough failed to return for supper last night, his relatives notified the police and a search was made. He was found in the ruins. The buildings were burned out on the inside and the firemen had to knock down the roof to get to the other factories in the vicinity. The damage to the property is $25,000 and is covered by insurance.

MONTY TELL PICTURES COST

Man Who Bought "Grant and His Generals"
Heavily Fined for Contempt by Refusers

When Sabrina E. Husted as administratrix of the estate of Peter Van Ness Husted, Brooklyn began proceedings some time ago to discover the whereabouts of the famous picture, "Grant and His Generals," which she contended had belonged to Mr. Husted and was worth $25,000, George Brush, appointed referee by Surrogate Abbott, heard the questions involved. George Studwell was the most important witness examined. He testified that the painting had been purchased by a stranger, one of several, Daniel F. Lewis and Frank Husted, from Mr. Husted and that it was stored in Washington, D. C. He positively refused, however, under advice of counsel, to say who had been paid for the picture. The referee thereupon found Studwell guilty of contempt and fined him $250 as well as costs, which he refused to pay. He was ordered to pay $400. If Mr. Studwell does not pay the fine, the referee will enter an order committing him to the custody of the sheriff to be incarcerated until he has paid the fine or been released by the clerk of the Surrogate's court. It is said that this is the first time the mastery of the Surrogate's court has pursued the course adopted by Mr. Brush.

When Mrs. Haigh told Coroner Banning to-night that her husband was in trouble she and her husband ever had when she scolded him for working too long. Haigh was tall and well built and fond of out-of-door sports. His wife says that Haigh was a good father to the two children whom Haigh idolized. The eldest of them was a boy of six named Charles and the other has not yet been named. Haigh had a pair of pet goats for the children's play when he was home, his neighbors say.

Haigh was in the city in the place of a man given by Mrs. Haigh to Coroner Banning. Haigh returned to Pelham to-night, as usual at 5 o'clock and ate supper at 8 o'clock with the children and herself. He appeared to be in good health and spirits. After the meal suggested to little Charles that they play hide-and-seek.

"All right, papa," said the child, with a light. "You run upstairs and mamma and I will go up and hunt for you, Mamma and I will be in the dining room and papa will get through."

Mrs. Haigh took the baby on her lap and sat down to read a newspaper. She was all about the game until she heard a scuffling sound in the dining room. She started up, crying and choking. At first she thought it was her father and he at play. Then the scuffling grew louder and she ran upstairs to the bedroom whence the screams had come.

MEN'S AND BOYS'
CLOTHING
ON CREDIT
READY MADE AND TO ORDER
Warm hearted means better clothes. If you ever heard of our NO EXTRA CHARGE CREDIT SYSTEM as a means of getting where you're going—

WEEKLY AND MONTHLY PAYMENTS
Ready Made Suits, Flannels and Overalls, $12 and $15. TO ORDER $10, $20 and Boys' Suits, $3 to $12. Flannels and Overalls, $1 to $3. Suits, ask time to order. $10, $15, $40, and Fancy Vests, $3 to $6. Men's Hats, $2.
Write for terms.
Open Saturdays until 10:30; Mondays 9.

Brokaw
UNDER THE SAME
Ready to Wear Club
Business Suits

---

made from Rough Worsted to Worsted in indistinct color lines
Boys' and Children's
Livery Outfits
Fourth Avenue

that is the only time, with the exception of this last, that I have ever known him to yield to the temptation to drink. And as a matter of fact, his habits were so good that he never drank by example, he always preached totalitism.

"As to his death, I believe that he was a man Stanley somewhere and not being himself. I suppose that he let Stanley know in some way or other that he was suffering from rheumatism, and a man told me once for all, I believe, that Stanley finally got Father Phillips to go to his room where the priest permitted himself to be subjected to Stanley's treatment. He convinced that in my uncle's condition death would have followed almost immediately any such heroic treatment—that,

"but the opinion that the hot-air treatment, if Father Phillips were subjected to it, would have caused his death," Dougherty is joined by Dr. H. H. Mann. Asked after the autopsy what he thought the effect of this treatment would be upon a man in Father Phillips' condition, Dr. H. H. Mann said:

"I believe that it would have killed him LONGER SOMETIMES FOR DRINK."

In reference to his fondness for liquor, Father Phillips made a statement to a night manager of the New Central Hotel. He said that about once in every five years he had drunk a little rum and he could do nothing until longing had been satisfied.

"I have just got to go away somewhere and I have put you in the hotel room and when I have taken my fill I have further desire for the stuff for a long time," he said, "I am afflicted with this appetite as a sort of punishment. I try to do duty as I find it, but I evidently fall somewhere, and this is the way I am punished for my shortcomings."

Stanley was arraigned yesterday morning in the West Side court and the policeman who had him in custody was against him as a suspect in the murder of the woman. The law firm of Levy & Linger took up the case and at their request he was remanded to the county jail, the Coroner and locked up in the Tombs.

He is about 33 years old, is tall, gangly and dark with a pointed beard. He drew a long breath when he saw the woman who talked to him seemed to be a person of some education.

SEARCH FOR MR. STANLEY.

The police are looking for Mr. Stanley. She was her husband's only home a week yesterday. When the janitress last saw her she would not go to the rooms in rear.

"I would faint up there," she said.

Capt. Donahue said last night that had some clues to the woman's whereabouts but didn't care to say anything about them.

SHAMROCK II'S TRIAL AT WEDMONT

SHOWED THAT AN INDIFFERENT MAINS WOULD

on Too Light Spars.
Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN.
LONDON, May 18.—The Field, commenting on the trial of the Shamrock off the coast of Ireland, says: "The challenger's performance was distinctly disappointing, although the so-called trial of the Solent revealed nothing of any value. There is no doubt that the favorable appearance of the yacht combined with satisfactory weather was sufficient to buoy up the water through the water, buoyed up our hopes until we felt reasonably confident of W. S. S. yacht's success in the open sea."
A rolling sea, combined with a certain want of life, which made her position in the water, and the fact that she was not so large and possibly too light spars have been largely neglected against the success of the new cutter, and we now feel that the same alterations are made there is not much hope of her being "tuned up" enough to be Shamrock I by a sufficient margin.

FATAL FIRE IN BROOKLYN.
One Man Mortally and Two Severely Burned.
John W. Masury & Son's Factory.
One man was burned to death, and two were severely burned at a fire in John W. Masury & Son's paint and varnish factory at 157-161 Plymouth street, Brooklyn, last night at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The storey brick building at 100, 102 and 104, which was used as a three-storey brick building, was used as a storage house for the manufactured paint and varnish.

Thomas McDermough, 23 years old, of 100 North John W. Thompson streets and his fifteen-year-old son, John W. McDermough, of 17 Bridge street, and Thomas Scott, 21 years old, of 104 North John W. Thompson street, were in the building preparing a vat of varnish when the explosion occurred.

A quantity of shellac in the vat became overheated and exploded. The explosion threw all of the men on the floor and the burning vat of varnish fell on the floor and burst into flames. Scott ran to their feet and after putting out the fire in their clothes ran to the adjacent building.

They closed the doors to prevent the spreading to the storage building, which was filled with tanks containing from 100 to 200 gallons of varnish.

Nine engines and three hook and ladder companies were sent on the ground from the foot of day street.

John W. Thomas and his son, Thomas, were injured and their bodies were burned on the head, shoulders, back and arms. The McDermoughs were not injured.

When McDermough failed to return for supper last night, his relatives notified the police and a search was made. He was found in the ruins. The buildings were burned out on the inside and the firemen had to knock down the roof to get to the other factories in the vicinity. The damage to the property is $25,000 and is covered by insurance.

MONTY TELL PICTURES COST

Man Who Bought "Grant and His Generals"
Heavily Fined for Contempt by Refusers

When Sabrina E. Husted as administratrix of the estate of Peter Van Ness Husted, Brooklyn began proceedings some time ago to discover the whereabouts of the famous picture, "Grant and His Generals," which she contended had belonged to Mr. Husted and was worth $25,000, George Brush, appointed referee by Surrogate Abbott, heard the questions involved. George Studwell was the most important witness examined. He testified that the painting had been purchased by a stranger, one of several, Daniel F. Lewis and Frank Husted, from Mr. Husted and that it was stored in Washington, D. C. He positively refused, however, under advice of counsel, to say who had been paid for the picture. The referee thereupon found Studwell guilty of contempt and fined him $250 as well as costs, which he refused to pay. He was ordered to pay $400. If Mr. Studwell does not pay the fine, the referee will enter an order committing him to the custody of the sheriff to be incarcerated until he has paid the fine or been released by the clerk of the Surrogate's court. It is said that this is the first time the mastery of the Surrogate's court has pursued the course adopted by Mr. Brush.

When Mrs. Haigh told Coroner Banning to-night that her husband was in trouble she and her husband ever had when she scolded him for working too long. Haigh was tall and well built and fond of out-of-door sports. His wife says that Haigh was a good father to the two children whom Haigh idolized. The eldest of them was a boy of six named Charles and the other has not yet been named. Haigh had a pair of pet goats for the children's play when he was home, his neighbors say.

Haigh was in the city in the place of a man given by Mrs. Haigh to Coroner Banning. Haigh returned to Pelham to-night, as usual at 5 o'clock and ate supper at 8 o'clock with the children and herself. He appeared to be in good health and spirits. After the meal suggested to little Charles that they play hide-and-seek.

"All right, papa," said the child, with a light. "You run upstairs and mamma and I will go up and hunt for you, Mamma and I will be in the dining room and papa will get through."

Mrs. Haigh took the baby on her lap and sat down to read a newspaper. She was all about the game until she heard a scuffling sound in the dining room. She started up, crying and choking. At first she thought it was her father and he at play. Then the scuffling grew louder and she ran upstairs to the bedroom whence the screams had come.

MEN'S AND BOYS'
CLOTHING
ON CREDIT
READY MADE AND TO ORDER
Warm hearted means better clothes. If you ever heard of our NO EXTRA CHARGE CREDIT SYSTEM as a means of getting where you're going—

WEEKLY AND MONTHLY PAYMENTS
Ready Made Suits, Flannels and Overalls, $12 and $15. TO ORDER $10, $20 and Boys' Suits, $3 to $12. Flannels and Overalls, $1 to $3. Suits, ask time to order. $10, $15, $40, and Fancy Vests, $3 to $6. Men's Hats, $2.
Write for terms.
Open Saturdays until 10:30; Mondays 9.